Your legacy gift to Ottawa Therapy Dogs
is generous and enduring.

It is also surprisingly simple.

The most common form of a legacy gift is through a bequest in your will. Other possible legacy gifts include: RRSP/RRIF Funds, a gift of life insurance, gifts of stocks or securities.

Leaving a legacy gift requires just a few sentences. Here is a suggestion for wording your bequest gift:

*"I give, devise and bequeath to Ottawa Therapy Dogs, Charitable
Registration No. 88312 8308 RR0001, _____ % or $ _____ of my estate to be used to provide care and support through animal-assisted therapy."*

Your assets will support

Future Therapy Dog Teams

Volunteers and their companion dogs undergo orientation, mentoring and must pass a rigorous evaluation by professional dog evaluators to ensure safe and effective services to vulnerable clients. Facilities are then assessed and guided before placements to ensure a successful environment for animal visits.

People In Need

Ottawa Therapy Dog teams perform critical roles in various programs. Whether it's a child bravely facing cancer treatment, a student struggling with reading, or a senior recovering from a stroke, OTD's therapy dogs and their handlers work closely with healthcare, social services and educational teams by providing invaluable comfort and care to people in need.

By naming Ottawa Therapy Dogs as a beneficiary in your will, you are helping to ensure good dogs continue to do great work in the future.
